

Seavine Cymbal Gloves Small Black

$18.00

Product Images

Description

Seavine Cymbal Gloves provide both protection as well as utility. A person playing hand cymbals experiences certain levels of physical pain as well as surface level injuries that are common for performers. These high performance cymbal sleeves help to minimize those effects, in that they provide another layer of "skin" for the player. This helps prevent abrasions and swelling which are natural occurrences when playing the instrument. Another obstacle for performers is the inherent friction and, in some cases, "sticking" of the cymbal strap on the wrist and forearm when trying to execute more advanced visual sequences involving releases and reloads.

The Cymbal Gloves help to reduce friction at those very locations, without compromising the look of the player within the ensemble. In short, The Cymbal Gloves help cymbal players maximize their performance, while simultaneously maximizing their ability and preventing injuries. As every new drumstick, every new mouthpiece, and every new mallet does-- The Cymbal Gloves help set each performer up for ultimate success!

Sizing Information:

While we are still putting together a more accurate sizing chart, here are a few helpful tips in choosing what size is best for the performer. Your size for a pair of The Cymbal Gloves typically correlates with what size cotton band glove you would wear. The material is elastic so there is some play in size. Generally most cymbal players order mediums unless they are particularly petite or a larger person.

Washing:

For cleaning and upkeep, The Cymbal Gloves are safe to machine wash in cold water. Do NOT put in the dryer, hang up for best results.

Additional Information

SKU	263971
Brand	Seavine
Model Number	SM CYM BLK

