Description

New from Evans, these drumheads are the very first to market with a newly patented UV cured coating. It is the most consistently applied coating ever seen on a drumhead. This is the number one solution for drummers who are tired of flaked, chipped, and worn out coatings. It also has the added benefit of increased surface texture making it extremely responsive and sensitive for brush playing. In addition to Evan's new coating, UV1 drumheads feature a new 10mil film. This film type is known to have warmer tonal characteristics while being more resistant to stretching and denting. Combined with Level 360 Technology, the UV1 series is the most versatile and durable 10mil drumheads drummers have ever laid their hands on. Size available from 10"-26" Patented UV-cured coating provides unmatched durability and consistency Made from a single ply of unique 10mil film A single ply offers an open and expressive sound Extremely versatile for a wide variety of musical applications Level 360 Technology collar design ensures proper contact between drum head and drum shell.
